

COAL MINES TO BE SHUT DOWN

Operators Decide Illinois Mines Are To Be Closed Until New Agreement Is Made.

DECLARE CONTRACTS ARE VOID

Employers Declare That Men Must Stand The Expense Of The Shot-Firers' Law Recently Passed By The Legislature.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]

Springfield, Ill., June 21.—Practically every coal mine in the state of Illinois—in which 30,000 men are employed—will shut down June 30 to remain closed until the United Mine-workers of Illinois make a new contract with the Illinois Coal Operators' association.

This decision was arrived at in the conference of the operators' association, at which 95 per cent of the members were either present in person or by proxy, and over 50 per cent of the independent operators of Illinois also were in attendance. The conclusion was arrived at unanimously.

The united miners probably will be called into convention in this city early in July. The executive board of the miners' organization will convene here June 24 to consider such plans as may seem advisable. No compromise proposition was advanced to the miners by the operators and all the contracts with the miners are considered abrogated.

Operators Break Contracts.

The action taken by the operators in declaring all contracts abrogated by the miners is followed by declarations from the officials of the latter that the call for a new contract will be followed by insistence on more liberal terms than were granted in the present agreements.

The operators, on the other hand, will not insist on reimbursement for the additional expense entailed by the operation of the new law, but will demand a radical change in the present scale. They will insist on a wage agreement with screen instead of mine-run basis. This contention, it is said, will place the mines of Illinois on a fair competitive standing with Indiana and other states, where the screen basis exists.

Willing to Negotiate.

The operators in the resolutions drafted state that they are prepared to negotiate with the miners a new scale based on the provisions of the shot firers' law. This provision provoked the only discussion in the convention. Commissioner Herman Just of the Illinois Operators' association declared that the probabilities of a joint conference with the miners for the purpose of considering a new scale were at present not strong.

President H. C. Perry of the united mine workers, after the announcement of the decision of the operators was received, expressed himself as in no wise disturbed over the action of that body.

Miners Will Hold Convention.

"I will not discuss the matter," he said. "There will be a meeting of our executive board June 24, at which we will prepare some plan for the future. It is more than likely that a convention with representation from each local of the state will be called in a few weeks, but when I cannot say now. Personally I cannot see where the contention is made that we have violated our contracts. I am willing to submit our agreement to an arbitration committee composed of any lawyers in the state. I am satisfied they will find no violation of a single clause of the contract as a result of the shot firers' law."

The treasury of the united mine workers at present contains approximately $500,000. The officials of the miners' organization cannot touch this under present conditions without the sanction of the different locals of the state, either by a referendum vote or by action in convention.

Peaceful Measures Are Urged by the Premier and Dissolution May Follow

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]

Stockholm, June 21.—When the Rikstag assembled today in extraordinary session to consider the dissolution of the union by Norway the government immediately introduced a bill asking authorization to enter into negotiations with the Norwegian government and make a conditional settlement of the questions involved in the separation. Premier Ramstedt recommended pacific measures. The King then addressed the assembly. He said he had acted in accordance with his conscience and always in conformity with the constitution, and with a full desire for the welfare of the two peoples. "The bill presented to the Rikstag does not aim at replying to the injustice by the acts of coercion. The union is not worth the sacrifices which the acts of coercion entail. Such a union would be of little value to Sweden." The King expressed a hope Sweden would regain within its own borders what it has lost by the dissolution of the union.

SWINDLE GAME WELL WORKED

Philadelphia Broker Used Acid To Erase Figures On Bonds, And Then Raised Them.

FORGERIES MAY REACH A MILLION

Clever Game Was Not Revealed Until The Death Of The Supposed Millionaire In The Pennsylvania City.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—Financial circles were shocked when it was learned that a number of stock certificates pledged as collateral to secure loans negotiated by the late Benjamin H. Gaskill, a broker, who died four weeks ago, had been raised, causing a loss of $750,000 to $1,000,000. How much farther the fraud may go and who are involved could not be learned out of the chaos that attended the announcement. Three cases of raised certificates were brought to light. Men in touch with the street said that there was no telling where the investigation would lead.

One of the raised certificates was for two shares of stock of the United Companies of New Jersey. The certificate No. 2 had been taken off with acid and replaced with "200." As one share is valued at $272, the market value of the certificate was at once increased to $27,200.

Forgery Is Discovered.

Gaskill left no will, and administrators began to close up his business. A patron of the firm bought from the estate 100 shares of Philadelphia Traction company stock and 100 shares of stock of the United States Steel corporation. The certificate did not agree with the company's books, and an investigation showed that the certificate had been raised from six shares to 100. The discovery was reported, and the exchange sent out notices to its members not to receive stock certificates from the Gaskill estate.

Lincoln L. Eyre, and George M. Wagner, trustees of the Gaskill estate, refused to discuss the matter. "I have heard the charge that Gaskill raised these certificates," said Mr.

Eyre, "but I do not care to discuss it. Mr. Wagner and I have gone over Mr. Gaskill's effects, but we cannot say what we found."

Two Sets of Books.

It was found that Gaskill had credited himself on his own books with 6,000 shares of Philadelphia traction stock, valued at approximately $600,000. While the traction company's books showed he had only 400 shares.

Gaskill kept two accounts—one recording the transactions of his customers, which was correct, and another giving his own transactions. His books showed that he was losing from $15,000 to $25,000 a year in his business. His method was to obtain certificates of gilt-edged securities calling for one, two, three, or some other small number of shares, raise the figures, and give them as securities for large loans. At least six banks and trust companies of this city admit holding fraudulent securities for large loans.

Losses May Reach $1,000,000.

Not one of the institutions will make public the amount of money they advanced, but a financier who has been making an investigation said that the amount of money loaned on the raised certificates will aggregate between $750,000 and $1,000,000. It is believed that little will be recovered from the estate.

Gaskill was about 41 years of age when he died, and was a high liver, spending about $50,000 a year. He was a member of the Manufacturers and other clubs. He paid $6,000 for one pearl last year. Gaskill left a widow, to whom the stock exchange a few days ago paid $5,000 as life insurance. His seat on the stock exchange is valued at $15,000.

TOO MUCH RAIN
INJURING CROPS

CENTRAL WISCONSIN SUFFERS
MOST DAMAGE THUS FAR.
HAY CROP WILL BE HEAVY

Cereals, Especially Corn, Will Not Be Satisfactory — Secretary
T. True's Report.

Madison, Wis., June 20.—The crop report for the month ending June 15 follows: The month has been notable for its excessive rainfall throughout the state. Many localities have suffered severely from the flooding of low lands and the washing of rolling cultivated fields. In the first instance, planted crops have been drowned out, and grains and grasses lodged and covered with dirt; and in the second, cultivated crops have been washed out and fields have been badly injured by the removal of alluvial soils.

A few instances of damage by hail are reported, but the loss resulting from storms seems to be largely from the immense amount of falling water. The central division of the state has more generally suffered than the south or southwestern portions, and evidently more than the northern part of the state.

Besides the direct destruction of crops, the extreme moisture of the soil together with the general low temperature, caused much seed corn to fail to germinate, and seed potatoes have rotted badly after planting. Quite an acreage designed for corn in central and northern divisions had not been planted at date of this issue.

The general condition of meadows, pastures and small grains throughout the state is excellent. The hay crop is to be one of the heaviest ever harvested; pastures are luxuriant, and winter grains have headed in excellent form and promise satisfactory results.

Oats and barley are in danger of producing too much straw, and lodging, all other conditions being favorable. The stand of corn in the southern division is usually reported as satisfactory, while in the central and northern divisions there is much complaint of rotting seed and damage from cut worms. The continuous wet weather has interfered with the cultivation of the crop, and fields were generally weedy, but during the past week the warmer days have been industriously used by farmers to good advantage.

Not half of the tobacco crop has, at date, been planted. The plants are small but vigorous, and will be transplanted during the coming week. Sugar beets, in common with other field crops, have suffered from rains; fields are weedy and much hand work will be required to put the crop in good shape.

The great need of all crops now is warm dry weather. Dry weather would check the too rapid growth of grain, hasten the development of the corn plant, and enable the farmer to secure the marvelous crop of hay now ready to harvest.

The present is the "off year" for an apple crop—small reports indicate that for the non-bearing season the prospect is favorable for an average crop. Small fruit promises well. The strawberry crop is large, and the markets are over-crowded, while cherries, raspberries, currants and gooseberries are doing nicely.

I submit the tables showing the condition of the principal farm crops based upon reports received from correspondents in the central and southern divisions of the state; crops in the northern division, aside from grass and grain, not being sufficiently advanced upon which to base an intelligent estimate.

Central Division.
Wheat, 96; rye, 98; oats, 98; barley, 97; meadows, 106; pastures, 105; corn, 76; potatoes, 92.

Southern Division.
Wheat, 100; rye, 103; oats, 100; barley, 102; meadows, 106; pastures, 107; corn, 83; potatoes, 94.

The Whole State.
Wheat, 98; rye, 102; oats, 97; barley, 100; meadows, 106; pastures, 107; corn, 84; potatoes, 93.

JOHN M. TRUE,
Secretary.

BUILDING NOTES

Work on the remodeling of the Bostwick building, occupied by the Bassett and Echlin saddlery manufactory, was commenced last week. The laying of the brick to raise the walls another story is progressing rapidly and the changes will be completed in short order.

At Waterloo, Iowa, has been erected a court house and postoffice building that is in pattern identical with the government structure in this city. The architecture of the new postoffice and court house buildings at Grand Haven, Mich., and at Yakston, South Dakota, are very similar to the Janesville postoffice.

The foundation work on the new McVicar building on south Main street has been completed and the building is fast being raised. The lifting of the roof on the Helms building and the construction of the double front for these two structures has been commenced.

More famous than the flatiron building of New York promises to be the "Toothpick" building of San Francisco. The plans for this structure, which have been drawn, specify a sixteen-story erection of California limestone construction, to occupy a lot on the corner of Grant avenue and Tiltman alley, the ground dimensions of which are only 30x25 feet. The ground floor will be occupied by a storeroom and the upper ones by offices. Each one of these floors will contain three offices.

Architect Hilton has completed a set of plans for a new residence to be built by T. P. Benson on South Jackson street directly opposite the residence of Mrs. Thomas Jeffers. The dwelling will be of frame construction, 33x42 and will call for an expenditure of about $4,000.

The plans for the remodeling of the court house, which were made in the office of Architect Hilton, have been delivered and will be discussed at a special meeting of the county board next Wednesday. Some action on the proposition may be taken at that time.

Bids on the residence of John Heider to be constructed on south Jackson street have been received by Architect Hilton and the contract let to Heise and Roberly for about $1,600.

Blair and Summers were awarded the contract for the remodeling of the Young Hotel building at Broadway. The figure at which it was secured was $7,032.28, not including the heating and plumbing contracts which will be let together at about $2,000 it is estimated.

The plans for the addition and remodeling of the Lincoln school building were delivered Monday and discussed at a meeting of the school board on the evening of that day.

The firm of Schaller-Brothers, proprietors of the Janesville Steam Laundry on south Main street, will enlarge the boiler room of the building extending the one story portion of the block considerably further back. This has been made necessary by the purchase of a horizontal boiler, a vertical boiler hitherto having been used.

Contractors Hughes and Quinn hope to have the excavation work of the new Methodist edifice completed by the end of the week.

FASHION NOTES

While it is yet too early to make any positive predictions regarding autumn fashions, it is safe to say that the separate skirt will be in greater demand than it was last season. This prophesy is based upon the large number of elegant coats, long and short, which are being made of cloth and silk in such a way that it would be difficult to have a skirt to match. That is, some of the newest fabrics for these coats are not at all adapted to the making of skirts, though they make the smartest of light wraps.

Whenever emphasis is laid upon the separate skirt, we are always sure to see this very necessary garment in the most alluring styles. That the fashionable skirt will be a full skirt is a foregone conclusion. This design has secured too great a hold upon popular favor during the summer to be dethroned so quickly. Several of the newest skirts made of light weight cloths have deep embroidered flouncings which may be bought in widths of almost any length. The very expensive designs have the embroidery deep enough to form the whole skirt. Taffeta silks eyeleted in simple but pretty patterns are also shown for handsome separate skirts and these are usually made over a color to show the handsome handwork on the silk to best advantage. Bright green, white, cream and pale blue are the favorite colors for these foundations, when the skirt is made of black silk. For the rich shades of brown there are harmonious orange and ecru tints, while endless pale shades of green are worn under dull emerald and Russian green models.

A fetching skirt which is pretty with or without embroidered trimming is very full and gored at the top to do away with superfluous stuff but left full enough to be shirred into the waistband. The bottom is finished with tiny side platings of silk alternating with narrow puffed bands, twisted around in scroll effect at frequent intervals.

Graduated tucks, narrowing as they recede from the hem toward the half skirt length line where they end, are well liked as a skirt trimming and groups of tucks either uniform or made with a different depth for each group are effective.

Circular tops to which are joined deep flounces, also circular in shape, the joining being so concealed by trimming repeated upon flounce and top that the effect is of a one-piece skirt rather than of a flounced skirt.

DRY WEATHER IS STILL DESIRED

HIGH TEMPERATURE AND ABSENCE OF RAIN NEEDED.

A CHANCE FOR CULTIVATING

Crops Are, According to Weather Bureau Report, Coming Along Very Excellently.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Climate and Crop Service of the Weather Bureau, Wisconsin Section, Report for the week ending Monday, June 10.—The week just closed has been very favorable for the growth of crops and the advancement of farm work, except in some of the northern central counties, where the wet weather continued. This section comprises most of Outagamie, Langlade, Oneida, Forest, and portions of Marathon and Lincoln counties, and the excessive rainfall of the current week, following the almost unprecedented rains of last week, has proven very discouraging to the farmers in that section of the state. Elsewhere the ground is drying out nicely and in most sections, farmers were able during the latter part of the week to do some of the much-needed cultivation of corn and potatoes.

The very decided increase of temperature during the week has been very beneficial to all crops, especially corn, and in most sections of the state the outlook is decidedly promising. A week or ten days of dry weather with full sunshine is needed. Winter Grains: Winter rye is headed out well. The growth of straw is very rank and in some sections there is complaint of lodging. Winter wheat is in promising condition and two weeks of warm weather would bring it nearly to maturity. Spring Grains: Oats, barley, spring wheat and rye, especially on high ground, have made excellent growth. As a rule, the growth of straw is unusually heavy and there is a tendency to lodging. The outlook for these crops is, however, decidedly promising. Corn: The high temperature with abundant moisture in the soil has brought corn forward very rapidly and in some of the southern counties the stand is reported about ten inches high. The fields are quite weedy, as a rule, on account of the continued wet weather, which prevented cultivation. In the central section, where the rains were excessive and continuous, much replanting has been necessary. Potatoes: As a rule potatoes are in promising condition in the southern counties. In the "principal" potato counties there has, however, been too much rain and the fields are much in need of cultivation. Potato bugs are very numerous and doing considerable damage. Dry weather is needed for this crop.

Grass and Pastures: Clover is rapidly nearing maturity, and in some sections some has been cut. The crop is very heavy and dry weather is needed to secure it. Timothy is very rank and everything points to a very heavy crop. Pastures are furnishing an abundance of feed.

Tobacco: Considerable transplanting was done during the latter part of the week, with the soil in good condition. The plants are generally large and healthy.

Minor Crops: Sugar beets are coming up nicely. Field peas and beans are doing well. Gardens are generally in satisfactory condition.

Fruit: Strawberries are ripening. The vines are generally well loaded. Apples are setting well. Cherries are ripening and the crop is generally satisfactory.

Cranberries: "Cranberries blossoming rapidly; frequent and heavy rains submerged many bogs, interfering with desired drainage, and injuring reservoirs."—W. H. Fitch.

Correspondents' Reports: Southern Section.

Sun Prairie, Dane county: Corn and potatoes making rapid growth; potato bugs more numerous than for several years; some tobacco being transplanted.—Allen Cobb.

Janesville, Rock county: Little rain during the week; corn being cultivated and growing nicely; some tobacco being set; sugar beets look good.—Walter Helms.

Parkville, Columbia county: Frequent showers have kept the ground too wet for cultivation and fields are becoming very weedy.—M. W. Roberts.

Bliss, Portage county: Weather favorable for all growing crops, although a little too wet for corn; rye setting, with prospect for a good crop.—N. Elden-Mitchen.

LABOR NOTES

Another significant step toward establishing peace between seamen and longshoremen on the Pacific coast, upon the basis of mutual respect and confidence, was recently taken by the formation of the Pacific Coast Federation of Longshoremen.

What threatened a few days ago to develop into a general foundrymen's strike in New York city and vicinity has been averted by concession.

A general strike of hod carriers occurred recently in Kansas City. They demanded an increase of forty cents a day. They are now getting $2.40 for eight hours' work. The hod carriers, including the men who run wheelbarrows on building work, number close to 2,000.

With Chinese merchants, including those in the Philippines, declaring a boycott against American goods unless the United States exclusion laws are satisfactorily adjusted by treaty, and with the labor unions of the Pacific Coast clamoring for Japanese exclusion at the close of a successful Japanese war, the Asiatic problem threatens to prove troublesome in congress next winter.

IT TOOK BRIBERY TO APPEASE MR. APPLEBY

One More Chance Given Janesville To Respect His Title as Prophet.

Weather Prophet George Appleby is mad. He is more than that. He swears by the Cameron dam, the Thornapple dam or any old dam that he will give Janesville but one more chance. Here he shifted the cyclone that struck Dane and Iowa counties Sunday night off from the fertile valley of the Rock and his work is not appreciated. The next storm he will send south of the state line in northern Illinois, and then if he still finds any scoffers, why he will land a choice selection right in Janesville. He even threatened to have it arrive as one of the features of the Fourth of July. However, he had a short talk with Col. Nonesuch last night and the jovial old Colonel persuaded him that it would be bad form and promised if he was a good boy he would let him ride in the parade as the lion tamer in pink and sky blue tights, with Blodgett's Gladstone for a lion. Appleby was appeased and Janesville may again escape. He thought of the spangled tights and the applauding crowds and he promised the Colonel to be good and have a nice day for the Fourth. After that beware.

ENJOYABLE TIME
AT BIG PICNIC

Outing Conducted Under G. U. G. Auspices Proved Great Success in Every Particular.

Yesterday's picnic at Electric Park, held under the auspices of the Gegen-seitige Unterstuetzungs Gesellschaft Germania, proved a great success in every particular. There was a large crowd present both afternoon and evening and the members of Bower City Verein No. 31 who made the arrangements had every reason to feel well repaid for their efforts. That superb musical organization, the Monroe Military band, contributed much to the enjoyment of the day. Refreshments were served at the park and addresses, games, and a variety of amusements made the hours pass pleasantly for the picnickers. The festivities concluded with a dance for which Rehfeld's full orchestra played. The Monroe band and many of the visitors did not return to their home cities until this morning.

GREATER AMERICAN
CLUB'S LAST MEET

Supper and Program Last Evening Closed Successful Season of Study.

Last evening in the parlors of the Congregational church was held the final supper and program of the Greater American club for this season. The event closed a most successful series of banquets and discussions, which have been held monthly during the past winter. The attendance at the meeting was of the usual size and a very excellent feast served by a number of ladies of the church, who have furnished the suppers and by whose efforts largely the club has become permanent and increased in popularity among the young men. The program completed the work commenced earlier in the year—the study of the island possessions of the United States. All of the more important islands and groups have been discussed and last evening a number of those of lesser importance were the topics spoken on. Rev. Denison and W. S. Jeffers have helped the young men greatly in the closing of their subjects, in the work of the organization and in the management and to them belongs a great deal of credit for the success of the programs which have been rendered. The meetings will be resumed next fall.

No one would ever be bothered with constipation if everyone knew how naturally and quickly Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the stomach and bowels.

Cures croup, soar throat, pulmonary troubles—Monarch over pain of every sort. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It is a mistake to imagine that suffering can't be cured; a mistake to suffer a day longer than you can help. Doan's Ointment brings instant relief and permanent cure. At any drugstore, 50 cents.

A blessing alike to young and old; Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry; nature's specific for dysentery, diarrhoea and summer complaint.

A strictly first-class personally conducted excursion Tuesday, June 27th. Leave Janesville, 8 a. m.; arrive at Lake Geneva, 9:50 a. m.; Williams Bay, 10 a. m. Returning, leave Williams Bay, 5:40 p. m.; Lake Geneva, 8:50 p. m. For tickets and information apply to agents C. & N. W. Ry.

WISCONSIN GAINS POINT IN LAW
Court Decides State Can Go Back of Reports in Railroad Case.

Madison, Wis., June 21.—The state won a point in the test suit brought against the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad company to recover $10,000 damages for alleged failure of the railroad to report full gross earnings. Judge Stevens ruled that although the railroad commissioner marked reports sent him "approved" this was not final and the state has a right to go back of such reports. Go into a Business House today to apply for a position of any kind and you will not be asked, "What do you KNOW?" but

WHAT CAN YOU DO?

Mere knowledge can be secured by consulting a cyclopedia; mere mechanical work can be done by a machine. Knowledge is power, but the power must be of such a character that it can be applied to the work that the world wants done.

A young man or woman may know how to apply for a situation in seven different languages, and yet apply in vain if he writes a poor hand; cannot add a column of figures rapidly and correctly; cannot make out in proper form, notes, drafts, bills of sale, receipts and other business papers, and, in short, cannot DO the duties of the modern office.

The young man or woman who expects to succeed in this exacting age must be trained to

DO THE WORK THAT THE WORLD WANTS DONE.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, June 21, 1865.—Arrival Home of the 42d Regiment.—The 42d regiment arrived at Madison last night where it is to be mustered out of the service.

The Gross Results.—The receipts at the Congregational Festival at Hyatt House last evening, must have been exceedingly gratifying to the society. They amounted to $326.54.

The Sea Serpent.—A gentleman informs us that he saw in the river last Sunday, a curious-looking object which at first sight he thought was a log about four feet long, but while he stood looking at it, it disappeared beneath the water and rose again a short distance off, making toward a flock of geese in the cove near the gas house. They taking the alarm made for the shore. Whether the creature was an alligator or the veritable sea serpent it was difficult to determine.

The Equestrianism.—This standard establishment, one of the most successful, gigantic show enterprises ever formed in America, will pay a second annual visit on Saturday next, the 24th inst. Our readers who attended it last year, will remember with satisfaction, the able and liberal manner in which the programme was observed, and how implicitly the management gave all that was promised in the advertisements and upon the announce bills. This season the Monster Equestrianism comes enhanced in interest by the accession of the two greatest riders the world has ever produced, viz.: Mr. James Robinson, the champion horseman; and Madame Louise Tourniaire, who will introduce her newly imported troupe of French dancing horses. Mr. Robinson, who is without a competitor, will ride two sensational bareback acts, in one of which he will present his infant son, Clarence, who is the youngest, prettiest and youngest smart child rider ever brought before the people. The gymnastic department has been greatly augmented this season, there being four double somersaulters in the combination. Mr. Joe Penland, the celebrated man of fun, with the remarkable retentive memory, is the leading clown. The Equestrianism is synonymous with excellence; further comment is unnecessary.

A DECOLLETAGE GARNITURE

The vogue of ribbon garnitures for the evening gown is a charming conceit, and there is simply no end to the clever designs that are exploited in these. In the illustration a clever use is made of narrow satin and velvet ribbons, with knots and ends of a broad satin ribbon at intervals to give some dash and character to the smaller design. Three shades of turquoise are used for the decolletage decoration, and the long pendant ends that are daintily knotted are all of the lighter tone. The coiffure ornament is likewise in the faintest tint of blue, and the center is that usually used for a poppy flower, in a dull sage green that harmonizes well with the turquoise shadings.

Let Common Sense Decide

Do you honestly believe, that coffee sold loose (in bulk), exposed to dust, germs and insects, passing through many hands (some of them not over-clean), "blended," you don't know how or by whom, is fit for your use? Of course you don't. But is another story. The green berries, selected by keen judges at the plantation, are skillfully roasted at our factories, where precautions you would not dream of are taken to secure perfect cleanliness, flavor, strength and uniformity.

From the time the coffee leaves the factory no hand touches it till it is opened in your kitchen.

This has made LION COFFEE the LEADER of ALL PACKAGE COFFEES.

Millions of American Homes welcome LION COFFEE daily. There is no stronger proof of merit than continued and increasing popularity. "Quality survives all opposition."

RUSSIAN NAVY REFORM.
The retirement of Grand Duke Alexis and Admiral Avellan from the places they had long filled at the head of the Russian Navy Department must be interpreted as a strenuous movement toward reform and reorganization of that department, with a view to increased efficiency. We might say, indeed, with a view to the creation of efficiency, since in the present war that quality has been practically absent from the fleet. The imperial despatch to the grand duke is gracious and complimentary in tone, but there can be little doubt that its polished phrases about yielding to his reiterated request really cover practical dismissal from active service. For years the grand duke and the admiral have had almost absolute control of the navy, and have spent upon it enormous sums of money; and now, on being put to the test against another which had been ranked far inferior to it, that navy has proved more hopelessly inefficient than any other in all the story of sea wars. That is the record. It is completed logically with the "retirement" of these two officers.

Twice in this war the Russian navy has shown its inefficiency. The first time was at Port Arthur. As has been pointed out in "Brassey's Naval Annual," even after the damage inflicted by the first Japanese attack the Russian fleet was nearly the equal on paper—of the Japanese, and if it had come out and forced a general and close action, while it might have been beaten and destroyed, it should have been able to inflict heavy losses upon the Japanese fleet—losses so heavy that the second Russian fleet, arriving from the Baltic, would have had an easy victory and would have wrested from Japan the control of the sea. The second time was in the Strait of Korea and the Sea of Japan. That the Russian fleet was beaten was not surprising. That it was crushed without being able to do any material damage to the Japanese indicates in its management an inefficiency which scarcely any adjective in the superlative degree would be too strong to describe.

Just what has been wrong we should hesitate to say. In design and, presumably, in construction and equipment the Russian ships were admirable. The Far Eastern fleet at Port Arthur had been much longer in commission than the Japanese, and had thus enjoyed more opportunities for perfecting discipline. According to "Brassey's Naval Annual," much attention had been paid to practice firing with big guns, probably more than by the Japanese, though the Russian practice may have been on a less up-to-date system. We all know what Captain Clado has been saying about the abuses and inefficiency of the Russian navy, for which he was recently dismissed from the service by the very men who have now followed him into retirement. It is not pleasant to criticize any department of the administration of a friendly power, especially of one toward which we are now in an especial sense bound to exercise a benevolent neutrality, but nothing we might say in derogation of the Russian naval administration could be stronger than what has already been said by Russians themselves. The retirement of these two high officers must be taken as a practical justification of those criticisms, and we may hope, as auspicious of a new and better era. Russia must have a new navy, and it ought to be a good one, for an inefficient one would be a guarantee neither of peace nor of victory in war.

A GOOD APPOINTMENT.
By the appointment of John Barnes, the Rhinelander attorney, to the place on the railroad commission originally assigned to Nils P. Haugen, Gov. La Follette has, intentionally or not, atoned in a measure for his original blunder, says the Milwaukee Sentinel. Mr. Barnes is a man of ability and a distinguished member of the legal profession. He is a democrat, but he has never sought to shine as a political orator and he is therefore better known for the record he has made as a lawyer than as a man who has attempted to traffic in specifics compounded by himself and recommended for the cure of all political diseases known to man.

Mr. Barnes is neither a hysterical reformer nor a cheap demagogue. That he will devote his time and talents to the task given into his hands by Gov. La Follette and that he will give the state the best service he is capable of performing will be accepted as a matter of course by those who are acquainted with the man. He will not be "used" either by the state administration or the railroad corporations. If Gov. La Follette has made the mistake of believing that Mr. Barnes' appearance before the Supreme court last year as the attorney for the administration in the political case signaled his surrender to La Follette and all his works for all time, he is destined to be enlightened later.

The appointment of John Barnes to the commission brings to the service of that body a trained legal mind. In this respect the commission will be well equipped. If Mr. Barnes and his associates prove to be capable of grasping the practical as well as the legal and academic phases of the problem given them to solve they will do good work even with the imperfect law by which their actions will be guided. A good commission can at least avoid working a maximum of injury when applying a dangerous law; a poor commission would make a sad mess even with the best law ever enacted; but a poor commission with a poor law to work with must inevitably do an immense amount of damage to the industries of the state. It remains to be seen what the Wisconsin commission will do.

MORE JOBS.
The Monroe Journal says to the question what the legislature of 1905 did:
Increased the number of factory inspectors.
Authorized the appointment of two inspectors of rural schools.
Provides for a board of trustees for county institutions in Milwaukee.
Increases the number of dairy and food inspectors.
Increases salaries and force in the department of insurance.
Increases salaries of Circuit judges and makes a new Circuit court district.
Increases the number of employees of the legislature.
Provides for the establishment of two new fish hatcheries.
Creates a grain and ware house commission.
Creates a state forestry board and provides for the appointment of five wardens and trespass agents.
An act to regulate railroad corporations and creates a board of railway commissioners.

PRESS COMMENT.
La Crosse Chronicle: Well, the new law doesn't affect the old cornob, anyway.
Atchison Globe: An Atchison drunkard, instead of wanting to fight, quotes poetry.
Chicago Record-Herald: Admiral Togo's salary is only $3,000 a year. He seems to have made a mistake in not going into the life insurance business.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Proclamations of harvest hands in Kansas read like a call for more troops to defend the old flag.

Milwaukee News: The governor's confidence in Mr. Davidson is so great that he may be willing to permit him to issue the next Thanksgiving proclamation.

Chicago Tribune: Persons whose jewelry has not been stolen by the burglars and holdup men during the last two months may be glad to know that the price of diamonds has gone up 25 per cent.

Madison Journal: However, it is not permissible to assume that banking offers unusual temptations to do evil simply because live bankers are now convicts in the Leavenworth prison.

Neenah Times: The Post states that "Blue trading stamps are no longer redeemable in Appleton." It appears the people trusted; the firm went busted; women are disgusted, and claim can't be adjusted.

Milwaukee Sentinel: The Boone, Ia., Independent announces that "a dead cat has been removed from the postoffice alley." Boone means to get right up in line with municipal reform.

Superior Telegram: A man was driven insane by heat Saturday at Appleton, Wis. Up here, where men are still wearing their overcoats, such news seems strange. If you want to cool off come to Superior.

Marion Advertiser: The Stout bill has finally become a law. This excludes all saloons 300 feet from school houses and church edifices. May the Lord have mercy on the poor vender who hasn't got the means to move on.

shares with woman the gift of the greatest animate physical beauty, and the classification does the lady no discredit. As for man, his partner in pulchritude is away down the line, probably a mule and maybe a burro.

Duluth Herald: Somebody has figured out that if Rockefeller's money was in dollar bills laid end to end it would reach around the globe and have eight miles left over for a bow-knot. In the meantime it is not in dollar bills, but it is doing some tall reaching in this country.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Iowa reports a freak in the shape of a pig which has elephant ears and a well developed trunk. Perhaps, however, this is merely in the nature of the evolution of things, giving this modern and up-to-date pig a better chance to get at the swill.

La Crosse Leader-Press: We are of the opinion that the rate commission will be a stronger body without Mr. Haugen—no matter who may be named in his stead—than it would be with him. It may be that a conservative and impartial commission can demonstrate the wisdom of the law in pursuance of which it is now being created, and we should like to see the commission have this chance. Mr. Haugen is neither conservative nor impartial. He would be for an impetuous administration of the new railroad law—which would be good for neither the law nor the state.

Milwaukee Sentinel: On the authority of an alleged interview published in the Hearst syndicate newspapers, the advocates of municipal ownership are now attempting to minimize the effect of the repeated expressions of opinion by James Dalrymple, the superintendent of the Glasgow tram car system, on the subject of municipal ownership and operation of such systems in American cities. The original opinions will stand, all the same, because it is a notorious fact that the Hearst newspapers fake or garble all their news, suppressing what does not suit the purposes of the publisher and coloring all they print to the end that it may be made to appear to support his visionary propositions.

Madison Democrat: Besides Mrs. Mary Rogers, convicted of the murder of her husband, and now under sentence to death in Vermont, three other states have women criminals awaiting execution, namely, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Kansas. A New England paper states "there are many people who refuse to believe that Vermont or any other New England state will ever again put a woman to death by process of law." However, that may be, the fact remains that lawful murder should be allowed under no circumstances. The experience of states without laws providing for capital punishment is such as to prove that the non-existence of statutes of that character has no influence in augmenting crime.

Wonderful Gardener Ants
Baltimore American: An article in Science on the tropical American ant states that these ants cultivate mushrooms for food. "The necessary work is done by a special caste of gardeners ants." These, it is said, prune and tend their crops with greater care and intelligence than is shown by human beings in growing mushrooms. The ant specialists are making tremendous strains on average credulity in their statements about the doings of the little insects. We are told that the ants have armies of trained soldiers, and that tragic wars are common among them, and in time we shall probably be informed that they have battleships, torpedo boats and submarines, with searchlight attachments. Human beings are trying to keep in advance of the ants in the march of intellect, but they have to hustle to do it.

Census Body-Snatching
Chicago Record-Herald: New York is taking a census. It knows in advance how big its population is going to be. It sets the figure at something over 4,000,000. T. Tallafiero, a Virginian who did not want to be a New Yorker, was taken to the West Side police court yesterday charged with not answering the questions of Thomas Warner, an enumerator. "This is an outrage, your honor," declared the Virginian. "I do not live in New York, never have lived here and do not intend to live here. I might be classed as a New Yorker, and I don't want to be."

The magistrate persuaded Mr. Tallafiero to answer Warner's questions. Western cities have been accused of counting the graveyard population at census time. They have been accused of counting double, and of rioting with figures. They have been accused of hiring imaginative geniuses instead of statisticians to do the work. But never yet have they been accused of "body-snatching" living men and counting them with the aid of the police. We hereby warn all our readers who are planning to visit New York to keep away for the next two weeks, lest they run the risk of being hurried into the police courts and made New Yorkers by force. The New York census man will surely get them if they don't watch out.

Which Is Which?
The sudden downpour of rain which usually follows a bright flash of lightning has generally been supposed to be the result of the discharge of the electricity. The most advanced weather students now put forward the statement that the contrary is the case; in other words, that the sudden increased precipitation causes the lightning flash, instead of the lightning flash causing the sudden increase in rain-fall.

Supercargoes.
Supercargoes are not employed nowadays. Formerly a supercargo represented on a vessel the owners of the cargo, and disposed of the cargo and bought new goods as he thought best for the owners. He had nothing to do but collect the freight and to sail from place to place in quest of trade. The position was salaried, and in addition the supercargo had a commission on his sales.

FIRE ALARMS BY WIRELESS.

Features of Device Invented by Dr. De Forest and B. C. Haldeman.

A wireless fire alarm system is the newest invention of Dr. Lee De Forest, vice president and scientific director of a wireless telegraph company, and B. C. Haldeman, former city electrician and general superintendent in the west for the company, says the Kansas City Times. They are building the apparatus jointly—some of it in St. Louis and some at Kansas City under the direction of Mr. Haldeman. It is to be given its first test in Kansas City during the firemen's convention next August.

Dr. De Forest was at the Midland hotel in Kansas City, recently and told something of what the new system is and what it is expected to accomplish. He asserts that it will be 50 per cent cheaper than any system now in use.

"The installation of the system will equip any building with automatic fire alarm signals," he said. "After the manner of the automatic sprinkling system our apparatus will be susceptible to a certain degree of heat. In case of fire the signal will be carried by wire up to the roof of the building and communicated to a flagstaff arrangement. Thence it will be carried through the air; a wireless message, to fire headquarters, where a receiver will be installed, in tune with the transmitter on top of the building."

"A bell will ring first and ring repeatedly to attract the operator's attention in case he hasn't the receiver to his ear. When he listens he will receive the message in a simple signal code of dots and dashes which will tell him the exact location of the fire. The operator will not have to be familiar with the Morse alphabet. A signal code can be used so simple in character that any one can take it. Street boxes can be used in the same manner as far as receiving the alarm is concerned. The message can be transmitted by pulling down a hook or by pushing a button."

"The wireless fire alarm system is Mr. Haldeman's idea. We are perfecting it together in a joint patent. I think it will develop into one of the most important branches of wireless telegraphy."

Dr. De Forest is making experiments with wireless telephone apparatus.

KNUDSON'S PATRIOTISM.

Norwegian Will Have His Breast Tattooed With National Seal.

Knud Lawrence Knudson, better known as Larry, the wealthiest office building chief janitor of Chicago, will have his breast tattooed with the seal of Norway and the national colors of independence of the country, says the Chicago Post. This is in honor of the final separation of Norway from Sweden, a step which Mr. Knudson has advocated for the last thirty years. He was at one time a member of the royal navy, has met King Oscar and had many strange adventures in foreign lands. His arms are already tattooed with patriotic Norwegian symbols.

Mr. Knudson said the other morning: "More than half a million Norwegians in the United States are preparing for a general celebration of Norway's final independence. In New York, Boston, Washington, here (Chicago), Omaha, Denver, Minneapolis and other cities on some certain day to be yet determined they will meet and with songs and cheers celebrate what ought to have happened fifty years ago. Skoll!"

"Up to yesterday wherever a Norwegian was he was a Swede. In all the consular service except in one little town in France if you looked for a Norwegian you found a Swede. It got so bad if you tried any corner in Christiania trying to find a Norwegian every scratch you made brought forth a Swede. I have got out of bed nights and walked around to keep cool, it made me so mad to think of it."

"In all history, all mythology, all the doings of things, Norway has always led, but Sweden got the honor. Now we are going to change it, and after this when you dig for a Norwegian you'll find one and not a Swede. Yes, I'm going to have myself tattooed to mark this event forever. I was once tattooed in Japan and again in the Samoan Islands to show my pride of Norway. This, though, is the great joy of my life, that Norway is now Norway. For this I am going to have Norway's insignia on me. There are many expert tattooers in Chicago, but I know how to do it myself. It will require about seven weeks' work."

Prohibited Postal Cards.

Postal cards with certain pictures on them have recently been prohibited in several countries, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. In Russia all cards bearing the portrait of Tolstoi are confiscated and destroyed; in Turkey, no card bearing the name of Allah or of Mohammed, the photograph of the caliph or the portrait of a Mohammedan woman is allowed to go through the mail; in Portugal the postal officials have been instructed to destroy any card which is designed to cast ridicule on the king on account of his corpulence.

When You're Sweeter in Summer.
When you're sweeter in summer, when you hear the thunder roll.
Just think about the fellows that are frazzled at the pole.
Say this from day to day:
"Hope's a joy that's never gone;
Just will melt in summer as freeze up later on!"

No use worryin' 'bout weather; it's a do-in' of its best.
Though it sets the sky a-blazin' from the wide east to the west.
Say this in dark at dawn:
"Weather comes, weather's gone;
Just wait 'til winter as freeze up later on!"

SAD DROWNING OF A TWO-YEAR OLD

INFANT SON OF FAY BUMP AT NEWVILLE YESTERDAY.

FELL FROM BOAT INTO RIVER

Body Found After an Hour's Search
by the Entire Village—
Funeral Here Tomorrow.

All Newville hunted for an hour yesterday afternoon for the two-year-old son of Fay Bump, who runs a grocery store at that place, and then found his lifeless remains in the Rock river a rod from a boat landing. The little fellow had evidently fallen from the boat into the water and his little body was carried down the stream until lodged in some weeds, where it was found.

Dead Two Hours
The little fellow would not be two until July 2d, but was forward for his age and very independent. He had been to Edgerton with his father in the morning and after dinner slipped away while his parents were busy, and the theory is that he went to the river immediately. Here a boat tied to the bank gave him an excellent opportunity for playing and it is thought he climbed into it. A wooden bucket was in the bottom and this he threw out into the water. It is thought that he fell overboard in trying to reach it and was drowned.

Not Mised
It was nearly three before he was missed and then the whole village turned out to hunt. It was not until four that the searchers discovered his body in the weeds a rod below the boat. Dr. McManus of Edgerton was quickly summoned, but came too late to bring back life, although he worked a half hour over the infant in vain efforts to resuscitate him.

Funeral Tomorrow
The funeral services will be held tomorrow at nine at Newville and the remains will then be brought to Janesville, where another short service will be held at Mr. Bump's residence, 273 Washington street, at noon. The interment will be at Oak Hill cemetery.

BERNARD M. PALMER BENEDICT TONIGHT

Weds Miss Caribel Butterfield at Moscow, Idaho, at Eight O'clock—Will Arrive Home About July 15.

Bernard M. Palmer of this city and Miss Caribel Butterfield will be wedded by Rev. Wilson Aull in St. Mark's Episcopal church at Moscow, Idaho, at eight o'clock this evening. The bride is the accomplished and charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Butterfield and a niece of Mrs. John G. Rexford of this city, with whom she visited only a year ago. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Palmer and one of the most promising young attorneys of Janesville.

Willis C. Bergstrom of Priest River, Idaho, who was one of Mr. Palmer's classmates at the University of Wisconsin, will be best man and Miss Florence Palmer of this city, maid of honor. The bride will be given away by the Misses Margaret Henderson and Francis Butterfield, who will be gowned in yellow and will carry yellow daisies. R. S. Butterfield and M. W. Griffith of Moscow will act as ushers. A reception at the Butterfield home will follow the ceremony.

The young couple are to enjoy an extended honeymoon journey through the far west, their itinerary including Los Angeles and possibly San Francisco, Portland, and Seattle, and a return journey over the scenic route of the Canadian Pacific railroad. They will reach Janesville about July 15 and will be at home at No. 9 East street after September 1. Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Palmer and daughter will visit in Portland and other western cities, returning to this city about the same time as their son and his bride.

Knights of the Holy Cross Base Ball Team Enjoy Banquet—Medal
for John Griffiths.

In honor of having won the championship of the Janesville Junior Baseball League, with a record on which there were no defeats, the team of the Knights of the Holy Cross and their manager were banqueted by Harry Ranous. The affair took place last evening in the Guild hall of the Trinity church building and was a most enjoyable occasion for all present. The supper was served in courses and the room was tastefully decorated in the colors of the club—red and white.

At the beginning of the year Doane Wright, manager of the team, offered a gold medal for the one who through-out the season should, according to the judgment of the other players, make the best record. By a vote of team, John Griffiths, catcher, was awarded the trophy.

Tonight there will be a meeting of the Board of Control of the league and officers for next year elected. The business of this year will be completed and the cup won by the Knights of the Holy Cross, will be formally presented by Doane Wright, president of the league.

BURGLARS ENTERED FRANK BAINES' HOME

Sometime Monday Evening Through a Kitchen Window—Extent of Booty Not Known.

Sometime Monday night burglars entered the residence of Frank Baines, 211 North Jackson street, through a kitchen window. The family is away from home, visiting in Michigan, and the house has been closed up during their absence. J. C. Ulrich, who lives next door, was the first to notice that the rear window had been tampered with and called the attention of William Bladon to the circumstance. When an investigation was made it was found that the sideboard and bureau drawers had all been opened and some small jewel-boxes were on the floor. They were quite certain that all the solid silver and similar valuables had been removed before the Baines family left, and that the burglars secured nothing very valuable. Two men were seen departing from the vicinity of the house about nine o'clock Monday evening by a servant girl in a residence near by but she thought nothing of it at the time.

INTERURBAN CO. TO BUY ST. RY.?

IMPORTANT NEGOTIATIONS ARE REPORTED IN PROGRESS.

M. G. JEFFRIS DOESN'T DENY

That a Deal is Under Way, But Refuses To Make Any Statement—
No Papers Have Been Filed.

Is the Janesville Street Railway property about to pass into the hands of the R. B. & J. Interurban Co. or some similar corporation? Rumor had it this morning that the transfer had already been made and the papers filed in the office of the register of deeds. It was learned at the courthouse, however, that no such documents had been made a matter of record.

Matter of Some Mystery
T. S. Nolan, attorney for the Interurban Co., when interviewed said that he had heard the rumor but could not substantiate it. There had been some talk of such a move some months ago but there were no new developments of which he was aware. He did not think any transfer had been made.

Admits Negotiations
M. G. Jeffris, attorney for the Street Railway Co., refused to make any statement beyond admitting that negotiations were in progress for a transfer of the property and that the Philadelphia parties who own most of the stock were in consultation with representatives of the prospective buyers at the present time. No deal had been closed, but he intimated that it was within the possibilities of the next few days.

Will Lay "Y" Rail
There was another report abroad to the effect that the work of laying the "Y" rail at the corner of South Main and Milwaukee street had been commenced and suddenly abandoned, possibly on account of the probable change of ownership which might necessitate important changes in the plans. When Supt. Murphy was questioned regarding the matter he said that the rail for this "Y" arrived yesterday and that it was going to be put in. He said that some of the tools and timbers to be used in unloading the rails had been removed from the street intersection to the car and intimated that this was what gave rise to the erroneous rumor that work had been started and later given up. "We've planned to make these improvements, and were going to make them," he said.

The nuptial high mass was read at nine by Rev. Harlin. The bride was attended by Miss Nora Condon and the groom by William Hayes. Miss Condon was gowned in a white aerie over a white taffeta and carried a bunch of white roses. Miss Nora Condon was gowned in white peraline. The table decorations at the wedding breakfast were white roses and pink carnations. Miss Luby of Janesville presided at the organ in the church. The bride was for many years a member of the St. Joseph choir and a leader in Edgerton society. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes will be at home in Janesville, 116 Chatham street, after September 1.

TALK OF MADISON INTERURBAN LINE

Story of the Gum-Shoe Campaign for a Right-of-Way Is Scouted—Cold Water on Whole Proposition.

Little credence is given the report emanating from Madison to the effect that the association of men headed by M. A. Beal has secured any considerable portion of a right-of-way for an interurban line between the capital city and Janesville. The report that portions of this right of way over private property were ceded free-grat is just to get the road through was pronounced ridiculous by several men from Brodhead, and other intervening cities who were discussing the matter today. One of the best informed men on interurban matters said this morning: "Rest assured, no independent line between Janesville and Madison will ever be built. The intervening country is too sparsely settled. Comparisons demonstrate the thing plainly enough. The line to Rockford is 31 miles long and draws upon an estimated population of from 80,000 to 90,000. A line to Madison would have to be 44 miles long and would have but an estimated population of 53,000 to draw from. Street railway experts figure their average revenue on a basis of $2.50 per capita. Some interurbans get more, some less, but that is the average. Street railroads in small cities receive sometimes considerably less, sometimes much more than this. In Madison it is from $4 to $6 per capita. In Janesville it has been as low as 90 cents per capita. In Rockford it is about $3.50 per capita."

A line between Janesville and Madison would be very expensive one to build. There is a large stretch of rough country, the line would have to make detours around the lakes, and in addition to these things there is no gravel to be procured along the right of way for ballasting the tracks. The only way such a line will ever be built is in the form of an extension to an existing line. As an independent proposition, investors simply will not touch it. Combined with another line it would offer an opportunity of increasing the per-capita rate on the country already opened up by the existing line.

KICKERS' KOLUM

To the Public: Each year the subscription paper is handed around for the benefit of band concerts and is signed by the leading citizens and merchants of the city. These concerts are usually held on evenings when there is no direct trade resulting to any of the merchants in putting their hands in their pockets and giving for the concert fund. For whom then are the concerts given? The general public? If this is so, why not hold them where the public can enjoy them? The Courthouse park does not belong to the east or west side of the river. It belongs to the public. There is plenty of clean grass to sit upon; benches, well-lighted and convenient. Why not hold all the concerts here? Here everyone can get a seat. Here the music can be enjoyed fully and there is no inconvenience in reaching the place. On the other hand, if the concerts are held on the Corn Exchange there are two star-buck lines with cars running backward and forward in the middle of a choice selection, teams rattling over the pavement, no place to sit down, dust and dirt everywhere and no enjoyment, if the band is raising the money to give concerts for the benefit of the public, if the merchants are subscribing to the fund for the benefit of the people, why not hold the concerts where the people can enjoy them?

"A SUBSCRIBER TO FUND."

To the Merchants: I would like to say a few words to the merchants of the city if I may. For many years past Janesville has been noted for its lavish Fourth of July celebrations. Funds have been contributed liberally to this end and the day's celebrations have been far superior to anything that is held anywhere in this vicinity. The feature of this success has been the two parades, the civic and military in the morning and the circus in the afternoon. In order to make these successful again this year it is necessary for each of you merchants to have a display in the morning parade and appear personally in the afternoon entertainment. Consider this matter carefully, and then hand your name to Eugene Fish, chairman of the morning parade, or George McKee of the afternoon parade.

"GENERAL COMMITTEEMAN."

To the Editor: Several times lately references have been made by kickers regarding the band concerts being held on the Corn Exchange. If the band men themselves had the choice, they would all be held in the Courthouse park. Here the spectators and listeners can sit down, and enjoy the music and there are no street cars or teams or howling boys to disturb the players. If possible I think enough pressure ought to be brought to bear in some quarter so that the public for whom these concerts are given would be the persons benefited and the park used exclusively.

"A MUSICIAN."

To Dog Owners: In Chicago they are making a crusade against dog owners who do not muzzle their dogs during the hot weather. There may be such a law here, but if there is, like many other good ordinances, it has not been enforced upon the thicker than can be wiped off. You dog owners can, however, do one good thing that may perhaps prevent your canines from becoming mad and biting passers-by and that is, have plenty of fresh water where they can get it when thirsty. A good thing is to place a small bit of sulphur in the pan. It acts as a tonic for the dog and keeps him in good physical condition.

To the Editor: I have waited in vain to see some one give credit where credit is due, for the heroic work of rescuing persons who have fallen in the river, from a watery grave. The fire department are always "Johnny-on-the-spot" and their efforts should be appreciated. You ask how? Well, by the council's making their pay higher for one thing and placing them upon an equality with the police department. There is nothing so discouraging for any class of workmen as to see another class doing less work, having shorter hours, receive more money. Janesville has a good fire department, why not give them good pay as they deserve?

"CURIOUS ONE."

Water Your Horses
Horse owners and those who drive them that are rented should remember that this faithful friend of man needs water. For pity upon the poor dumb brute that you whip around the streets these hot days, see that they have plenty to drink. Mere human kindness should teach you this was necessary but many of you forget it.

"A HUMANE LADY."

PAUL MORTON AND THOMAS F. RYAN

Personal Side of Leading Figures in the Reorganization of the Equitable Society.

Of Simple Tastes, Strenuous In Accomplishments and Alert
to Business Opportunities
Is the Life Assurance Association's New Chairman.

A Man of Remarkable Energy, Whose Friends Say He is "a Hog For Work."
How He Rose From Office Boy
to Vice President of a Great Railroad—Characteristics of Thomas
F. Ryan.

By C. B. ETHERINGTON
IN the reorganization of the affairs of the Equitable Life Assurance society the two men chiefly concerned are Paul Morton, secretary of the navy, and Thomas F. Ryan, the New York street railway magnate,
the former by his appointment as chairman of the board of directors of the Equitable Life and the latter as the head of a syndicate in control of the Equitable through purchase from James Hazen Hyde of the stock held

Boys' pranks back in the sixties nearly deprived the United States of a future cabinet minister and the Equitable of its new head. One day
Joy Morton, elder brother of Paul, started to "play doctor" and "get square" with the world for some bitter doses that had been poured down his boyish throat. He chose Paul for his patient, produced a bottle from the family medicine kit, donned his father's hat and spectacles and entered the room where the patient had been put to bed. After this professional visit Paul was discovered to be unconscious. When Joy was questioned about the day's doings, it transpired that he had given his brother laudanum, and only through the real family doctor's heroic work was Paul's life saved.

Vigorous in Mind and Brimful of Energy.
Paul attended school until he was nearly sixteen, and then, in 1872, he became an office boy in the Burlington and Missouri River railroad's land office at Burlington, Ia., at $16 a month.
Vigorous in mind and body and brim-
ful of energy, he achieved his career
by a combination of industry and native keenness. This advancement was steady and rapid in western railroad
work, and in 1898 he was installed
as vice president of the Santa Fe railroad system and took charge of its entire traffic. This position he held until he became secretary of the navy last June.

Always eager, alert and intelligent,
Morton never lost a business opportunity for himself or the corporations which he served. In this connection a characteristic story is related of the manner in which he became general freight agent of the Burlington road. At that time he was a bureau chief in the general offices of the company, and, together with other bureau chiefs, he was summoned
one day into the general manager's office and informed that the general freight agent had resigned. Suggestions as to the choice of a successor
were asked for by the general manager.

"I know the very man you want,"
said Morton, "and his name is Paul Morton."

then gravely asked his secretary where he should sign it.
"Why, in the same place you always sign," answered the scribe, surprised.
"But do you think it safe?" asked
Mr. Morton.
"Safe!" exclaimed his secretary.
"Why, I don't know what you mean."
"I can bet a good round sum you don't," replied the naval chief. "But you step across the hall and tell the assistant secretary of the navy to come around. Then get the judge advocate of this department, and if you should see any admirals or bureau
chiefs bring them hither."

The secretary was astonished.
"I mean every word," Mr. Morton persisted, solemn as an owl. "If I sign those papers I may go to jail. I suppose I must take some risks in the line of my duty, but I intend to secure all the advice on the subject that can be procured in this department. I won't be rash anyway."

The papers related to the transportation of supplies for the Mare Island
navy yard across the continent to California, and only after a humorous consultation for half an hour with various officials did Mr. Morton sign the papers, and hand them to the waiting messenger of the chief clerk. All this time messengers, clerks and others who had heard of the affair
were waiting amazed for the termination of such a remarkable proceeding.

Mr. Morton has been essentially a business man and has never, it is said, run to fads or fancies. While he has maintained a modest stable, he is in no sense a horseman; neither has he been prominently identified with yachting or golfing. He is a man of simple tastes and strenuous accomplishments.
Even in his younger days in Chicago

he was never known to smoke or drink, it is said, and his only recreation used to be a quiet game of cards on Saturday evenings. He has a keen sense of humor, but he has never been accused of being a practical joker.
The Western Freight association to this day is known as "the great reduction works," a name Mr. Morton gave it when it agreed on a tariff
schedule that did not meet his views.

"A Hog For Work."
As a worker Morton does not believe in letting anything drift along for a week if it can be settled in a day. He believes in short cuts instead of roundabout methods. Facts and figures are vastly superior to him than theories and fancies. An expression that Morton's friends use when speaking of him is that he is "a hog for work."

Thomas F. Ryan, who is in control of the Equitable, has been associated with large financial interests almost since his boyhood. His chief characteristic probably, next to an indomitable will,
is secretiveness and distaste for publicity. He was born in Nelson county, Va., in 1831. His mother died when he was five years old, and he went to live with his grandmother.

Made His Way From Poverty.

Young Ryan left the homestead and went to Baltimore in 1853 to seek his fortune. Without money or friends, he had a hard row to hoe. By perseverance he finally secured a position
with a dry goods commission house.
Not long afterward he obtained a place in a bank, and two years later he struck out for New York, where he formed a partnership with a stockbroker and prospered so well that in 1874 he bought a seat on the Stock Exchange. Thus he became associated with men like Jay Gould, William R.
Travlers, Samuel J. Tilden and others of large influence.

With the late William C. Whitney,
Mr. Ryan in 1883 began the work of obtaining and consolidating New York city's surface railway lines. Since then he has taken a prominent part in developing and organizing steam railroads, in consolidating and extending electric street railways and lighting
plants and in managing many industrial and financial institutions both in the east and west.

Fond of Raising Cattle and Dogs.

Mr. Ryan was married in 1873, and has five sons. He has a city home in New York, and at Suffern, N. Y., he has a fine farm, at which he spends as much of his time as possible. His chief diversion is the raising of Holstein cattle, and he also takes much pride in his kennels.

In manners Mr. Ryan is singularly courteous. He has an amiable smile, smooth address and an attentive bearing. With big smiling blue eyes, powerful nose, firm mouth, strong jaw-
line and large head, he is a handsome figure, tall, broad-shouldered and deep chested.

Such, then, is the man who has added
to his gigantic interests another so big
that the world has made it a subject of speculation—that of bringing order
out of the Equitable chaos.

Channoy, the 14-year-old son of G. W. Holmes, while climbing the east bluff at Devil's lake, fell eighty feet and sustained severe injuries. It took four men over an hour to carry him down the steep face of the cliff.

Match Races For Speedy Trotters

The Audubon Boy—Ecstatic and Audubon Boy—
Hazel Patch Contest.
Owner Gatcomb Anxious For the Fray—A Three Cornered Match?

James Y. Gatcomb reports that his horse Audubon Boy, 2:03 1/4, was never in better condition for his match race
with Ecstatic, 2:05 1/2, than at present.
He says that the match has already been made in proper manner and the contest put up in accordance with the wishes of John W. Dorey, the backer of Ecstatic, the amount being declared satisfactory by both parties.

As far as Audubon Boy and his owner are concerned, the match will come at the time and place agreed upon, with no thought of any backing down.

In regard to the proposed match race
between Audubon Boy and the Milwaukee pacer Hazel Patch, 2:05 1/2, Mr.
Gatcomb writes: "I am ready and will be only too glad to make a match
race between my horse and Hazel Patch, as has been proposed by the owner and admirers of the latter, the race to take place in the west or during the state fair meeting at Milwaukee. I leave it to the Wisconsin gentleman to name the amount of purse and forfeit.
You can state on the strength of this letter that they are at liberty to make the amount as high as they are ready to risk. Audubon Boy did many things for me, and I am willing to give it all back if there is any horse that can beat him."

It will be timely and interesting to learn the opinion of Mr. Gatcomb in regard to the proposed three cornered race, with John M. 2:02 3/4, as the third horse. He makes no reference to this horse, but as far as the Audubon Boy-Hazel Patch matter is concerned his language is plain and to the point. It is now up to the backers of the western mare to give their answer if they are in earnest.

The match between Audubon Boy
and Ecstatic will undoubtedly be one

AUDUBON BOY, 2:03 1/4.

of the most interesting trotting events of recent years. Both horses will have thousands of dollars wagered on them.

Angiola has wintered in first class shape at Wheaton, Ill., and will be a dangerous competitor in the 2:00
classes this season. After the Harford race last season Angiola was not in good condition and was several seconds from her true form. Just as the Charter Oak stake was finished a heavy storm came up, and the mare had to remain in the barn for three hours, being cooled out as was possible in such cramped quarters. The consequence was that she contracted
a cold, and for the rest of the season
she was weak across the kidneys. At the conclusion of the racing season she was shipped to Wheaton and after a spell of slow work was given a thorough course of physic, which resulted in an immediate improvement in her physical condition.

On the first of the year Trainer Oscar Ames commenced to give her daily
exercise of from ten to twelve miles regardless of weather conditions. Under this treatment Angiola has filled out, her flesh is as firm as iron, and she weighs 1,150 pounds, an increase of at least sixty pounds, probably close to 100 pounds, over her weight of last summer.

In fact, Angiola is a young mare,
and her growth is now about completed. Today she gives one the impression that she is larger and stronger in every way than she was last fall. She is one of the good big mares, for she stands fully sixteen hands high, and when her racing days are over she should make an ideal brood mare.

"Considering the fact that Angiola is sound and can show a two minute gait
for a piece of the road, it is reasonable to suppose that with ordinary racing luck she will be returned to winter quarters next fall with a work of 2:04
or better. That she is game to the core was amply evidenced at Galesburg last summer. W. H. Smollerger will probably have her raced on the great western circuit.

SUMMER RHEUMATISM

Every season has its own diseases, but Rheumatism belongs to all, for when it gets well entrenched
in the system, and joints and muscles are saturated with the poison, the aches and pains are coming and going all the time, and it becomes an all-the-year-round disease; an attack coming as quickly from sudden chilling of the body when overheated, a fit of indigestion or exposure to the damp, Easterly winds of Summer as from the keen, cutting winds, freezing atmosphere and bitter cold of Winter.

Rheumatism never comes by accident. It is in the blood and system before a pain is felt. Some inherit a strong predisposition or tendency; it is born in them; but whether heredity is back of it or it comes from imprudent and careless ways of living, it is the same always and at all seasons. The real cause of Rheumatism is a polluted, sour and acid condition of the blood, and as it flows through the body deposits a gritty, irritating substance or sediment in the muscles, joints and nerves, and it is these that produce the terrible pains, inflammation and swelling and the misery and torture of Rheumatism. No other disease causes such pain, such wide-spread suffering. It deforms and cripples its thousands,
leaving them helpless invalids and nervous wrecks.

When neglected or improperly treated, Rheumatism becomes chronic, the pains are wandering, or shifting from one place to another, sometimes sharp
and cutting, again dull and aggravating. The muscles of the neck, shoulders and back, the joints of the most often the seat of pain. Countless liniments and plasters are applied to get relief, but such things do not reach the poisoned blood; their effect is only temporary; they are neither curative nor preventive. The blood must be purified, and all irritating matter removed from the circulation before permanent relief and a thorough cure is effected, and no remedy does this so certainly and so quickly as S. S. S. It contains not only purifying and tonic properties, but solvent qualities as well, all these being necessary in eradicating the poison and making a complete and lasting cure of Rheumatism. S. S. S. cleanses the blood of all irritating matter and the acid particles are dissolved and filtered out of the system; thus relieving
the muscles and joints and removing all danger of future attacks. Under its tonic effect the nervous system regains its normal tone and the appetite and digestion improve, resulting in the upbuilding of the general health.
S. S. S. contains no Potash or minerals of any description, but is guaranteed purely vegetable. Old people will find it not only the best blood purifier, but a most invigorating tonic—just such a remedy as they need to enrich the blood and quicken the circulation.

Whether you have Rheumatism in the acute or chronic stage, the treatment must be internal, deep and thorough in order to be lasting. Never be satisfied with anything less than an absolutely perfect cure. This you can get by the use of S. S. S., the oldest and best purifier and greatest of all tonics.
Write us fully and freely about your case, and medical advice will be given without charge, and our special book on Rheumatism will be mailed free to all desiring it.

HIS WIFE A GREAT SUFFERER.

My wife had been troubled with Rheumatism for some time when she heard of S. S. S., which she tried and which cured her completely, as she has not suffered since. I recommend S. S. S. as a good medicine.

Indigestion and Dyspepsia Cured and Appetite Restored.

Mrs. Susie Morton, of 1307 So. 11th St., Birmingham, Ala., wishes every woman in the world to read what she knows of our medicines, and this is what she writes us under date of July 15, 1904: "I have improved wonderfully in health since using your Seven Barks and Globe Pills. The Globe Pills are the best thing I ever tried. They do not grip
at all, and keep the bowels in good condition.
Before using the Seven Barks I was troubled very much with indigestion and dyspepsia, but now I can eat anything, and I am as strong as I ever was in my life. I hardly know how to thank you for the good your medicines have done me. I wish every woman in the world could read what I am now writing and be cured."

We've sold Seven Barks for years and don't know of a better remedy for Indigestion and Dyspepsia. There's this much about it—it's been curing
people of the worst forms of stomach trouble for 35 years, and whenever it fails to cure, the person has only to return the bottle (no matter how much or how little has been used) and get their money. It's more than likely that your case requires similar treatment to that of Mrs. Morton.
Why not take Seven Barks and get cured? Deposit 50 cents with us, the price of a full-sized bottle, take it as directed, and if not perfectly satisfied with the results, we're here to refund
the price.

Think you for one moment we'd risk our reputation on a remedy that hadn't already proven its efficiency?

by Mr. Hyde, which ruled the destinies of the society.

Mr. Ryan declares that his motive in buying the control of the Equitable is to establish public confidence in the society and to secure the rights of the policy holders. To put an end to this loss of confidence which affects a great public trust of over $400,000,000, representing the savings of more than 600,000 policy holders, Mr. Ryan, together with other policy holders, has placed the Hyde stock in the hands of a board of trustees with power to vote
it for the election of directors, as to twenty-eight of the fifty-two directors,
in accordance with the instructions of the society's policy holders, and as to the remaining twenty-four directors in accordance with the uncontrolled judgment of the trustees.

As trustees for the policy holders ex-
President Grover Cleveland, Judge
Morgan J. O'Brien of New York and George Westinghouse of Pittsburgh
have been asked to act on the board,
and all have agreed to serve.

From office boy at $16 a month to second vice president of a great railroad system at $55,000 a year, surrendering this to become secretary of the navy in President Roosevelt's cabinet and finally resigning to become the head of the Equitable Life board of directors at a rumored salary of from $30,000 to $150,000 a year, is the record of Paul Morton in the forty-eight years of his life.

First Ambition Was to Drive a Stage.

Although he was born in Detroit, Mich., on May 22, 1837, Mr. Morton's boyhood and a large part of his manhood were spent in Nebraska. He is the eldest son of the late J. Sterling Morton, who was secretary of agriculture during President Cleveland's
second term, and his first ambition
was to be a wagon boss or stage driver.

ed cars were hurled in the ditch and demolished in a wreck on the North-Western road at Pine Creek bridge,

CHAS. HOWARD MONTAGUE AND C. W. DYAR

(Copyright, by The Cassell Publishing Co.)

"That, or something awfully near it, sir. I'm not taking my oath to every word; but I'll take my chances on getting the sense out of a thing once I hear it good. I know you, Marion, says he. 'Very well. You're reckless, and impulsive, and proud, but you mean to do right. You have carried your pride before this to the brink of ruining your own happiness and making a wreck of my life, but I'll answer for your meaning to do your duty.' And she says to him: 'What you call my pride, Richard, is the evil in me. Do you know, I sometimes believe my mother—and there she stopped and said: 'At times I feel as if I was possessed of the devil.' And I thought to myself, others in your service have thought so besides you, young lady. But the way she said it, I can tell you, gentlemen, half beneath her breath, was enough to give one the creeps. It even seemed to scare him for the minute. And then he tried to cheer her up, and she began to go on about her sister Stella, and to say she believed she'd been the death of that girl. And right in the middle of it she had regular hysterics, and she just sat on the sofa and wrung her hands and screams out: 'Oh, I'm wicked! wicked! wicked! I'd give my life to undo what I have done! Oh, will nothing come to my relief? Oh, I'm dying by inches.'"

Thomas and Lamm exchanged puzzled and startled glances.

"There is no question," said the detective, in a low voice, "that Marion accused herself in such language?"

"Not the faintest," said Miss White, positively. "That part of it is quite certain. She cried it out so loud it was a wonder folk in the street didn't hear her. And then he grasps her hand and says: 'Come, Marion; you must no longer keep me in the dark. You must tell me everything—even if it does criminate him whom the world calls your husband.'"

"No!" interrupted both men at once. "He didn't say that, did he?"

"He used those words," said Miss White, with a positiveness that set at defiance both doubt and syntax. "And he was very particular about it, too. I can tell you, I had both my ears wide open about that time. And she didn't seem to hear him, but kept right on. 'And, oh! Richard,' she said, 'do you suppose anything, any provocation, the worst treatment you can imagine a person to have received at another person's hands, would justify a mean and cowardly crime?' And with that he starts away from her, and she shrieks out: 'Oh, for pity's sake, don't cast me off! I am tortured beyond bearing!' 'Confess,' he says, and she threw her arms right around his neck and whispered in his ear. And just at that moment I was nearly frightened to death by hearing the latch lock. I knew if I stayed I'd be caught the next minute, and so I ran. It was Miss Harwood, and I was none too soon, either, for she lit the hall."

"Confound Miss Harwood!" said the detective, heartily. "She has spoiled everything for us."

"Yes, and for them, too," said the parlor maid. "For Mr. Ferridge did not stay five minutes after she came."

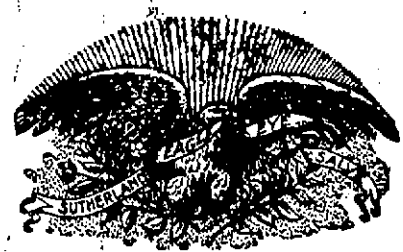

"Did you see him when he went? How did he act?" Lamm hastened to ask.

"Just as usual; only a bit excited. I'm sure of one thing, sir. Whatever she whispered to him, it didn't set him against her, for if he didn't squeeze her hand and look into her eyes the way he had no business to when he left her—then I'm no judge of such things."

The rest of that which the parlor maid had to tell was merely accumulative and corroboratory of what she had already told. Mr. Lamm satisfied himself of this fact by a cross-examination, interspersed with sly compliments, and sent the wide-awake Mollie White away at last, well pleased with herself, to resume, with increased vigilance, her watch of Marion Stackhouse.

"And now," said the detective, hastily, turning to Thomas, as soon as they were alone, "it remains for us to find out what Mrs. Marion has written, and meant to write, to her husband."

must say it is a very unprofitable task, but it is so important that it must be attempted."

"Very well," said Thomas. "If you'll attend to the letters which she destroyed, I'll turn my attention to the one she mailed. It is but 11 o'clock, and I doubt whether Stackhouse has received it yet."

"You had better be in a hurry, then," "I am going," said Thomas.

CHAPTER XXI.

DRAWING THE NET.

And now Reporter Thomas was making a determined though apparently hopeless effort to obtain possession of the letter which Marion Stackhouse had written to her husband. Not only hopeless the quest seemed, but dangerous. In the ordinary routine of his duties he would unhesitatingly have rejected an enterprise so obviously and disagreeable a nature. But the case was becoming desperate and it was no longer a business, no longer even a personal interest. The mournful pleading of the big blue eyes of Stella North nerved him for the ignoble task. The remembrance of some tears which he had seen that morning trembling on the long lashes stimulated him to unprecedented effort. He was in that mood where to obtain success he would stop at nothing short of crime. He hardly knew himself in this new role; but he played the spy and the sneak that day as he never played it before or since.

It was easy enough to assure himself of the existence of the letter.

Fifteen minutes after holding conference with Detective Lamm at the latter's office, Kingman Thomas was walking boldly to the desk at the Adams house.

"Good morning," said the clerk, for it was not yet noon of this eventful Saturday.

"Good morning," said Thomas. "Can you tell me whether Mr. Stackhouse is in the hotel?"

"Not in his room," returned the clerk, with a queer smile. "His key is here." "Curious!" said Thomas, with an assumption of troubled reflection. "I wonder if he's got my letter. I wrote him a letter last night and posted it at Swampscott," he continued by way of explanation. "Can you tell me whether he has it yet?"

The clerk took a look in the pigeon hole marked "S" and Thomas caught a momentary glimpse of a square, white envelope in his hand. But the clerk cast it back immediately and turned to the reporter.

"There is a letter for him here with the Swampscott postmark," he said. "It may be yours."

"A square, cream white envelope?" queried Thomas. "That looks like a piece of woman's stationery?"

"Yes."

"Ah, that's the one! He hasn't got it. Thank you."

"Are you going to wait and see him?" the clerk inquired, with another smile.

"Why?" asked Thomas, scenting something unusual.

"Only there are a dozen or so ahead of you; that's all. I thought I'd let you know."

"Indeed! And where are they all?"

"Oh, waiting about here."

"Business men?"

"Well, they have that look. Since the failure Mr. Stackhouse seems to have been considerably in demand."

"Oh, I see."

"Consequently, if it's anything important you'd do well to hunt him up, as this letter is likely to be here some time."

Thomas thanked his informant. As he turned away from the desk a darling subtlety by which he might obtain possession of the letter came into his mind, but he dismissed it with impatient horror.

"What am I thinking of?" he exclaimed, mentally. "Forgery! Tampering with the mail! I must season my impetuosity with a little reason."

He sauntered out as far as the doorway, and stood there in a brown study.

"No, there is nothing for me to do," he thought, "but to wait here for the man to claim his letter, however long that may be. I must trust to luck and a determined effort to get me a glance at it after he has read it."

The warning of the clerk made the outcome look dubious. These men waiting about here must be creditors or business associates who had pressing reasons to see Stackhouse. The clerk's significant air had insinuated that the junior partner was avoiding them. He was not then to be found at the office of North & Stackhouse? Evidently not, or these men would not come here to wait for him. Nevertheless if his wife had sent the letter thither, it must be because he had directed her to do so. If he deemed it a matter of so much importance, as John Lamm imagined, would he not find some way of obtaining his mail without calling?

It was at the precise moment when this thought was taking form in the reporter's mind that he observed a district messenger boy leaving the office. The boy was just putting his hat upon his head, and Thomas caught a fleeting glimpse of a square, white envelope.

In an instant he comprehended what must have taken place since he had left the desk. Thornton Stackhouse had sent a requisition to the clerk for his mail. A word at the desk confirmed the reporter's suspicions, and in another minute he was upon the heels of the messenger. His task at present seemed simplicity itself. To follow this messenger boy till he was finally led into the presence of the man whose commission he executed was a task that certainly called for none of the higher expedients of Mr. Thomas' genius.

The boy took a course southward and continued straight up Washington street until he reached Union Park street, when he turned short to the right, and a few minutes afterward entered the door of a drinking saloon in Shawmut avenue. Thomas had no special associations with the place, though he knew of it in a general way. Taking the precaution not to enter it immediately and thus give anybody who might be on the watch an idea that there was anything other than a coincidence in his arrival on the heels of the messenger boy, Thomas loitered into the place and passed directly into the bar, where he called for a drink. There were two or three men standing at the bar, but at the moment of his entrance nothing was to be seen either of the messenger or of Thornton Stackhouse. A number of booths ranged along the side of the room opposite the bar, however, attracted his attention, and in accordance with his surmises, Mr. Thomas was pleased very shortly to see the messenger emerge from one of these places. The boy had scarcely passed out when the reporter, swallowing at a gulp the beverage which he had ordered, placed the payment thereupon upon the counter, and lounged down past the compartment from which the boy had issued.

CROP BULLETIN IS FAVORABLE

Corn Is Making Good Progress in Most Portions of the Belt.

CULTIVATION WELL ADVANCED

Winter Wheat Harvest in Kansas, Missouri and Illinois Is Making Forward Strides, While Indiana Has Just Begun.

Washington, June 21.—The bulletin of the weather bureau states that with the exception of the upper Missouri valley, where low temperatures prevailed, all districts east of the Rocky mountains received ample heat during the week ended June 19.

The rainfall was very unevenly distributed, being ample in most northern districts, but insufficient in portions of the central valleys and of the middle Atlantic and Southern states, although good rains fell in some parts of these districts.

Good Week for Cultivation.

The week was favorable for the cultivation of crops, and this work, which in previous weeks was much hindered, is now in a very satisfactory state. Abnormally low temperatures prevailed over most of the plateau districts, with frosts in some places. On the Pacific coast the weather conditions were favorable.

Except in eastern Missouri and central and southern Illinois, corn has made good progress throughout the corn belt. Cultivation has been brought up to date, except in portions of Michigan, Wisconsin and South Dakota. In the Southern states, while generally doing well, corn is in need of rain in many sections. In the middle Atlantic states the crop has experienced a decided improvement.

Winter Wheat Favorable.

Winter wheat has progressed under favorable conditions, and harvesting is now well advanced in Kansas, Missouri and southern Illinois and has begun in Indiana and Maryland. The reports from the southern portion of the wheat area generally indicate yields lighter than were anticipated. Fair yields of good quality are reported from California, and in Oregon and Washington the crop has made good progress.

In portions of Wisconsin and Minnesota, dry weather is needed for spring wheat, but this crop has generally made very satisfactory progress throughout the spring wheat region and is beginning to head in the southern portion. Very favorable reports respecting spring wheat also continue from the north Pacific coast.

The oat crop has suffered to some extent, from excessive moisture in Wisconsin and Minnesota, rust in southern Iowa, rank growth in northern Illinois and drought in southern Illinois, but in these states and generally elsewhere the condition of the crop is promising. Oat harvest is in progress as far north as Missouri.

Cotton Improves.

Further improvement in the condition of cotton is very generally indicated throughout the cotton belt. The crop is now in a good state of cultivation, although some fields continue foul in portions of the central and Western districts, and in Florida. While, as a rule, good growth is reported, the plant continues small. Considerable damage by webworms is reported from Oklahoma and Indian territories, where some fields are being devoted to other crops. Boll weevils are spreading in northeastern Texas, but generally the damage is not great. Tobacco planting is largely finished, except in the more northern sections, and the crop is generally doing well.

As a whole the apple outlook is not promising, and especially in the states of the central valleys, but better prospects are reported from Kansas, Michigan, portions of Iowa and in New England.

In portions of Missouri and southern Illinois and also in the middle Atlantic states the grass crop has been shortened by drought, but elsewhere a good crop is promised.

P. D. Gifford, of Sleepy Eye urged the bankers to organize a co-operative association for fidelity, casualty and burglary insurance. President O. H. Havill of St. Cloud presided. About 200 members were present.

Manager of Kohlsaat's Bakery Says That Driscoll Varied From Truth.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE]

Chicago, June 21.—B. F. Barnhiesel, manager of Kohlsaat's bakery, appeared before the grand jury this morning and denied the story of John Driscoll to the effect Kohlsaat paid money to the labor leaders to avert a sympathetic strike of the teamsters during the waiters' strike at Kohlsaat's restaurants a year ago. He declared the strike was itself out and the cost to the company was $125,000 in loss of business. Alderman Thomas Carey, a democratic politician, told the jury money was given labor leaders by party officials and was for the purpose of securing their influence, not for strike purposes.

HYDE AND ALEXANDER OUT OF THE EQUITABLE

Chairman Paul Morton Accepts Resignations Tendered by Officials to Go Into Effect at Once.

New York, June 21.—It is ascertained that frequent consultations with lawyers, together with the three trustees of the Equitable Life-Grover Cleveland, Justice O'Brien and Mr. Westinghouse—have resulted in Paul Morton's determination that as fast as the developments of his expert accountants are ready, he will prosecute all the directors and officers, big and little, who have abused their trust by using the funds of the society for their own personal ventures and private profit.

It is said that many suits already are contemplated and can be brought as fast as the developments warrant to compel the restitution of all profits, illegally acquired, by the use of the funds of the society.

It is announced that as a result of the investigation by accountants already made three directors, formerly active in the society and auxiliary institutions of the Equitable Life Assurance society, are on the list for de-capitalization and prosecution. One or two men connected with the Equitable Trust company already have been marked for removal and prosecution.

Already it is made known that the accountants have discovered the private channels through which the policyholders' money has gone to enrich certain officers and directors of the old regime. The developments, it is added, are almost incredible.

James W. Alexander and James Hazen Hyde no longer are connected with the society as executive officers. Chairman Paul Morton of the society's board of directors announced that he had accepted the resignations which they, as president and first vice president, placed in his hands June 9. The resignations went into effect immediately.

CRAZY MAN USES GUN-ON HOTEL GUESTS IN THE WEST AND THEN COMMITS SUICIDE

United States Hotel at San Francisco the Scene of the Trouble.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE]

San Francisco, Cal., June 21.—An insane man armed with a rifle ran amuck at the United States hotel this morning, shooting and seriously wounding seven men and then committed suicide.

The man registered last night as Thomas Lobb and armed with a rifle, shotgun and pistol barricaded himself in his room on the fifth floor of the United States hotel. At nine this morning he shot eight passers-by and one policeman, and then putting the revolver in his mouth blew his brains out. He appeared rational, but gave no address and there is no clue to his identity. When he began firing thirty officers surrounded the hotel and finally broke in the door to find the man dead. The wounded are: C. T. Chevalier, shot in left eye; Wong Tong, left hand; Officer Kisan, left cheek; W. B. Coffman, right cheek and nose; Emil Roberts, left knee; Vincent Rountree, ear and jaw; W. Jones, right cheek; George D. Langton, cheek and arm, and Joe Larabee, cheek, eye and shoulder.

Scattered about the room were fragments of a number of fifty-dollar bills. In the dead man's waistband was a butcher-knife with a seven-inch blade. Among the effects found was a working card in the Carpenters' union of San Diego, Cal., and the address of the British consul in San Francisco.

STATE NOTES

The dam across the Waupaca river at Veranuega was broken by the high water and three feet of the crest swept away. Work of repairs will be begun at once, but in the meantime the mills and electric light plant will be idle.

One of the most daring burglaries ever committed in La Crosse took place at the home of Harry L. Colman, a member of the Colman Lumber company, when robbers secured $1,300 worth of silver. The rooms on the lower floor were systematically searched and everything in the way of silver and cash taken.

According to a report issued by State Commissioner of Banking M. C. Bergh, the total resources and liabilities of the 383 state and savings banks of Wisconsin on May 29 last were $94,604,030.43, an increase of a little over $1,000,000 since the preceding report made on March 14 last. The increase in deposits was over $1,400,000 and in loans and discounts $1,590,932.22. The banks have on hand about $5,500,000 in coin and currency, of which $1,500,000 is in gold. The number of banks has increased three in number.

White Cross on Russian Standards.

There is a pretty story of the reason why the white cross on a blue field is the Russian naval standard. When Peter the Great was at a ship yard near Amsterdam, where he spent some months gaining a practical knowledge of shipbuilding, he became very intimate with a clever workman named Cruys. Before leaving he revealed his name and station to this comrade and prevailed upon him to return with him to Russia. The plans for the first ships for the Russian navy were drawn by Cruys, and Peter, to show his appreciation of this act, made him an admiral and ordered that the navy should thenceforth carry a special flag with a white cross upon it to perpetuate the memory of his humble friend. Cruys is the old Dutch word for cross.—N. Y. Herald.

Finances in Bogota.

Five dollars for a postage stamp to carry a letter from Bogota, United States of Colombia, to the United States of America! That is what it costs in paper money—and all the necessities of life cost accordingly. The financial situation of the country is perilous in the extreme, and the new president, Gen. Reyes, will have a difficult task, it is feared, to place matters on a sound basis.—N. Y. World.

Currency of China.

Foreigners in China buy nearly everything on credit, giving signed "chits" for every purchase, the reason being their unwillingness to load themselves down with silver or native coin, while paper money fluctuates too much.

Four Good Habits.

There are four good habits—punctuality, accuracy, steadiness, and despatch. Without the first of these time is wasted; without the second, mistakes the most hurtful to our own credit and interest, and that of others, may be committed; without the third nothing can be well done; and without the fourth opportunities of great advantage are lost, which it is impossible to recall.—Exchange.

Courtesy in Tokio.

"In all my daily walks and rides for miles here in the streets of Tokio," writes a traveler, "I never heard an offensive word applied to me, nor saw an unfriendly face. Nor in the quieter streets did I ever see what is common in China, women and children darting in and bolting the doors on the approach of a foreigner. Even the dogs here are friendly and never bark at you."

ACCUSED MAN IS FREED OF CRIME OF MURDER

Witness Has Dream in Which Killing Is Re-enacted and Says Prisoner Is Innocent of Charge.

St. Louis, Mo., June 21.—On the strength of a dream, during which, he says, the killing of Charles Metzberg, a saloon-keeper, was re-enacted, Jacques Starke, the only positive witness for the state, refused to testify against John J. Schneider, who had been indicted on a charge of second degree murder, and a nolle prosequi was entered by the prosecuting attorney just before the case was to have gone to trial in the circuit court.

Metzberg was killed by masked men while in his saloon. Starke and three friends were sitting at a table when the highwaymen entered and in the subsequent fight one of the highwaymen dropped a hat bearing the name "John J. Schneider." The man who was discharged was arrested by the police and identified by Starke.

Several days ago Starke says that he had a dream in which the scenes incident to the killing were re-enacted, except that the man who fired the shot removed his mask and, looking at Starke, said: "Not Schneider, not Schneider, but me." Starke repeated his impression of the dream to the prosecuting attorney and refused to testify against Schneider.

As the state had no other evidence directly connecting Schneider with the crime, the case was dropped.
